BRAVERY OF SAANICH MAN WINS HONOR

William C. Clarke Awarded Humane Association's Parchment For Bravery

Risked Life to Rescue John Black From Gas Filled Well in 1928

The Royal Canadian Humane Association's parchment for bravery has been awarded William Charles Clarke, of Breed's Cross Road, North Saanich, for saving John Black, of Saanich, from asphyxiation in a gas-filled well on July 11, 1928.

The award was made by the Board of Investigating Governors yesterday at its meeting at Hamilton, Ont., and the parchment will be presented shortly at a ceremony to be organized by the Sidney Board of Trade, which collected the evidence and recommended the case to the attention of the Humane Association.

Mr. Clarke is a returned soldier and an ex-member of the Royal Army Medical Corps. He was employed on the day of the accident as helper to John Black, well-known Saanich well-digger, as a helper in putting down a well on the Bradley-Dyne property at Deep Cove.

WENT DOWN TWICE
The hole struck rock, and nightly blasting operations were undertaken. When Mr. Black descended into the hole on the morning of July 11 the gases of the previous night's blast had not been dissipated, and he was overcome. Mr. Clarke descended the well by ladder, but was unsuccessful in his effort to carry his employer out. He ran half a mile to secure help and again went down to tie a rope to the unconscious man.

Other British Columbia awards made by the Royal Canadian Humane Association yesterday include parchments to Leonard Leathley, 1305 Eighteenth Avenue East, Vancouver, for the rescue of Robert Hunter from drowning in Burrard Inlet, Vancouver, April 20, 1929, and to Mrs. W. H. Marshall, Ocean Falls, B.C., for the rescue of Amelia Ciozza from drowning at Ocean Falls.

NEW YORK-NOME FLIGHT STARTED BY U.S. PILOT

R. G. Hoyt Leaves East For Minneapolis on First Hop of Fast Trip

Mitchell Field, N.Y., July 18.—Captain Ross G. Hoyt, pilot of the endurance plane Question Mark, took off here for Alaska in a single-seater pursuit plane at 2:38 p.m. daylight time to-day in an attempt to make a flight of 8,000 miles in a shorter time than a journey ever was completed before.

Captain Hoyt planned the flight to demonstrate the feasibility of extending the present range of United States army ships by increasing horsepower and fuel capacity. The plane has a high speed of 180 miles an hour, but his schedule calls for average flying speed of only 140.

TOWN PLANNING GROUP REPORTS IN VANCOUVER

Commission Places Construction Schemes For Future City Before Council

Vancouver, July 18.—Within thirty years Vancouver citizens hope their municipality will be the home of a population of 1,000,000 and in the hands of civic officials this forenoon was placed a plan on which is suggested an orderly, beautiful and home-like city of those proportions may be built.

After almost three years of labor, the final printed report of the consultants to the Town Planning Commission, Messrs Harland Bartholemew and associates, and the commission, which provides for the transformation of the city of to-day into the larger city of to-morrow, was delivered at the City Hall.

The report contains 310 pages and provides the most comprehensive survey ever made of Vancouver and exhausts the avenues of municipal development. Sending its report to the city council, the Town Planning Commission asked for its adoption as the basis on which municipal development shall proceed. Divided into six main sections—major streets, transit, transportation, zoning, public recreation and civic art—fundamental schemes for building the greater city are provided. The systems of major streets provides for the daily flow of heavy traffic throughout the city. The transportation plans show how rail and water and provides the most comprehensive and better fitted to needs of industries and shipping. Transit schemes providing for betterment of street car routing and operation are outlined. A zoning by-law is suggested to ensure orderly development of private property and stable values. Recreation needs have been studied in relation to public welfare, and finally the outlines of an even more beautiful city are laid down.

LUMBER MILL AT CLIFFSIDE IS DESTROYED

Early Morning Fire at Shawinigan Lake Under Control After Six-hour Fight

Damage to Property Is Estimated Between $12,000 and $15,000

Fire, which for a time threatened the summer settlement at Cliffside, Shawinigan Lake, early this morning, completely wiped out the holdings of the Malahat Tie Manufacturing Company and destroyed a large amount of cut lumber piled in the yards and two freight cars loaded. The damage is estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Starting from an undetermined source about 3 o'clock, the fire gained a firm hold before it was noticed by mill employees. Attempts to extinguish the flames and save the mill building were useless. Thirty men were engaged in fighting the fire, and after it was seen the mill was doomed, they concentrated upon preventing the flames spreading to nearby woods. The blaze was under control before 9 o'clock this morning.

SUMMER HOMES ENDANGERED
Summer homes of several Victorians located not far from the blazing mill were endangered to a certain extent while the fire was at its peak. In addition to the mill employees engaged in combating the blaze E. & N. Railway employees joined in halting the flames.

Gurdit Singh, manager of the mill company, this morning estimated the loss at between $12,000 and $15,000. The mill, with its machinery, was valued at $8,000 or $10,000, while between $4,000 and $5,000 worth of lumber went up in smoke.

EFFORTS TO END WAGE DISPUTE

Miss Bondfield Induces Cotton Employers and Workers in Britain to Negotiate

London, July 18.—(By George Hamilton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—Right Hon. Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, has accomplished the first step in settlement of the wage dispute in the cotton trade of this country. Officers of the department succeeded in establishing contact between the employers and workers and at Manchester later to-day there was a conference between employers and operatives.

Both the employers and the workers balked on the demand for a twelve and one-half per cent. reduction in wages. The employers decided to force the decision on the workers and the workers decided to resist the reduction even if it should mean a stoppage of work in this great industry.

"Everybody will sympathize with the Labor Minister, Miss Bondfield, in the task which awaits her of securing agreement between the employers and workers in the cotton trade," The London Daily Mail said to-day. "No mistake could be graver than to assume a stoppage of work is inevitable. Nothing could injure the cotton industry more. The progress and prosperity of that industry are of the most vital importance to the nation."

President Holds Emergency Conference With Leaders of China, Following Break in Diplomatic Relations With Russia; Germany Takes Over Chinese Interests in Russia and Russian Interests in China.

PREMIER CHIANG

Nanking, China, July 18.—President Chiang Kai-shek called an emergency conference of Chinese leaders this afternoon to discuss the situation with regard to Russia. The Nationalist President talked with these leaders all afternoon, and although no official announcement was made, it is understood the Government has not lost hope of an amicable settlement of the Sino-Russian dispute.

The emergency conference followed receipt of a telegram from Governor Chang Hsueh-liang of Manchuria, reporting that "the situation is extremely grave," because the Russians were concentrating forces along the Manchurian-Siberian frontier.

Berlin, July 18.—The German Government has agreed to take charge of Chinese interests in Russia and Russian interests in China, it was announced to-night.

NOTE RECEIVED
Nanking, July 18.—The Chinese Government Foreign Office to-night announced receipt of the note from Moscow severing diplomatic relations between Russia and China.

The text of the note was not made public. A spokesman for the Nationalist Government said: "The Government is not perturbed. The note was expected. The Nationalist Government is fully prepared to meet any development likely to materialize."

FORCES MASSSED
Peking, China, July 18.—Japanese news agency dispatches from Harbin state Russian forces are being massed at Poganichina and Manchuli, along the Siberian-Manchurian frontier.

The transportation of Chinese troops to the frontier also was reported being rushed. The Russian consulate-general in Harbin has been closed, and the staff is preparing to leave.

London, July 18.—The London Daily Mail to-day published a report from its Peking correspondent of rumors in Chinese quarters there that Soviet troops had been repulsed in an attempt to cross the Amur River, which forms the northern boundary of Manchuria. (Concluded on Page 2)

Riga Reports Say He Is Concentrating Forces at Siberian-Manchurian Border

Riga, Latvia, July 18.—The celebrated Russian general Budenny, a brilliant cavalry leader, was reported in Riga to have been recalled from a vacation. He was said here to have four objectives. The first was to concentrate a powerful air squadron on the Siberian-Manchurian frontier, the second to reinforce the infantry, cavalry and tank divisions in the frontier region, the third to reinforce the Leningrad and Moscow garrisons and the fourth to concentrate Russian naval forces at either extremity of the Soviet Union.

Despite these reports, the Russian Government was believed in Riga to be distanced toward hostilities and awaiting a detailed reply in a more polite tone from the Chinese Government to the Russian note. The Nanking reply was considered here to be a flat refusal to Soviet dignity, just as Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs Karakhan described it.

SOVIET-CHINESE BREAK CAUSE OF SPECULATION
Shanghai, July 18.—Reports of Moscow's action in severing diplomatic relations with China started official circles here to-day and caused a flurry of speculation. Local Russian newspapers and commercial firms stated communications to Harbin, Manchuria, had been interrupted during the last twelve hours. This was interpreted as indicating the Chinese had clamped down on stoppage order on intra-Russian communications as a result of the tightening of the crisis.

New London, Conn., July 18.—The state governors, at their twenty-first annual conference here, to-day refused to go on record as officially approving or disapproving recommendations for reforms in United States prohibition enforcement made in a letter from George W. Wickersham, head of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. The letter was presented to the conference Tuesday by Mr. Roosevelt.

LIGHTS UP LAKE

The flames had gained considerable hold on the mill by 3 o'clock, when the fire was first noticed by employees of the mill, sleeping near-by. Towering into the sky, the lurid glare lit up the popular lake resort just as dawn was breaking in the eastern sky.

Rushing to the scene, mill hands first discovered that the regular fire-fighting equipment at the mill had already been destroyed by the flames. Long tongues of fire licked the sides of the buildings, and it soon became evident that little could be done to save them.

CALL FOR AID

A call for aid was put in to the E. & N. Railway, which rushed out apparatus for fighting the blaze with all speed. Government forest fire officials also were called to the scene.

The flames had by this time spread to the lumber stacked in the yard and to two cars loaded with finished ties on the E. & N. siding. As these were destroyed, the fire took hold in the brush and slashings around the site.

BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

Efforts of the fire-fighters, numbering thirty in all, including fifteen employees of the mill, were then directed upon keeping the fire from spreading. After several hours hard fighting, the fire was brought under control about 8 o'clock.

No announcement has yet been made as to whether the mill will be rebuilt. The old structure had a daily output of 10,000 board feet, and gave employment to between fifteen and twenty men. It had been in operation for the last five years.

When your Children Cry for It

Fathers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a little of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it free!—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colic, etc., show they need a good purgative. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

TEACHERS HEAR BLISS CARMAN'S FINAL MESSAGE

In Letter to A. M. Stephen, Poet Laureate Stressed Oral Expression By Children

Best Canadian Literature of Recent Years Originated in B.C., Lecturer Says

Showing the late poet laureate's interest in oral expression and desire to see poetry read aloud in schools, A. M. Stephen, novelist and poet, who is lecturing at the summer school for teachers, this afternoon read an extract from one of the last letters written by Bliss Carman before his death.

Mr. Stephen read a letter in which Dr. Carman said: "Poetry must be read aloud to be appreciated. It should be introduced in our schools as dancing has been in schools of Winnipeg." He asked Mr. Stephen to spread this view as much as possible.

OF INTRINSIC VALUE

"Canadian literature has a right to a place in our schools—not only because it is Canadian—but because of its intrinsic merit," Mr. Stephen declared during his address. He said that Canada had produced a small but authentic body of Canadian poetry which compared favorably with that produced during the same period in other countries. He noted the fact that Canadian literature had its roots in the Maritime Provinces and that the greatest activity in literary work is now to be found on the Pacific Coast.

John Howe founded the first literary journal in British North America at Halifax, the lecturer said. This was known as The Nova Scotia Magazine. Joseph Howe and Thomas Chandler Haliburton were briefly referred to and given credit for the first Canadian prose of outstanding merit.

EARLY WRITERS

In the period before Confederation in Upper Canada, the speaker said the foundation for native poetry in Canada was laid.

With the coming of Confederation appeared the famous "Group of '61." The lecturer briefly sketched the life and work of members of this group and made a touching reference to the recent death of the poet-laureate, Bliss Carman.

B.C. GROUP

Canadian fiction since Confederation was then sketched by the lecturer. Turning to the poetry of this later period he mentioned many minor poets including Wm. Henry Drummond and Robert Service.

Mr. Robert Norwood and Marjorie Pickthall he declared had restored the major note in contemporary poetry. The most recent monument belongs to the B.C. School of Poets including E. F. Pender, Tom MacInnes, Annie Charlotte Dalton and others.

"There is promise of great things for the future in the work of Canadian writers who are still with us," concluded Mr. Stephen.

To-morrow he will deliver a lecture at the same hour upon "The Major Note in Canadian Poetry."

NEW YORKERS SEE VICTORIA

Hundreds Coming to City on Organized Tours During Summer Months

Spend One and Two Days Here Now Instead of Between-boat Period

Forty holiday-makers from New York, the second of a number of parties scheduled for Victoria during the summer, are seeing the sights of the city to-day and will crowd in as much sightseeing as possible in a couple of days.

They comprise the second party of tourists to arrive on Gillespie, Kingsports, Beard tours, which will bring several hundred visitors from the U.S. metropolis to the city before the summer closes. Those who arrived in Victoria yesterday will spend two days with headquarters at the Empress Hotel, and as in the case of the French-Canadians who were here yesterday, advance plans enable the visitors to see all the sights without waste of time.

Before the New Yorkers now here leave another party on a tour organized by the same agency will arrive in Victoria on a one-day visit. Victoria, which used only to be favored with a flying visit between boats, has now been placed on the schedule for at least a twenty-four hour and in most instances a two-day stay.

MANY CALIFORNIANS HERE

Victoria is now drawing its usual big quota of Californians seeking a change of scenery during the summer. Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Stevenson, Miss M. V. Sullivan, Mrs. O'Leary and Mrs. E. R. Rowe are here from California. A. F. McDonald, Mrs. McDonald and Miss Hazel Campbell are here from Los Angeles.

Visitors from other United States points include Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Sykes, Milwaukee; Miss Dorothy Walton and Miss D. Shrader, Philadelphia; P. F. Fletcher, Charleston, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Watterworth, Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bolton and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bolton of Detroit.

"It shows the extent people like you will go for a few paltry dollars irreparable of the evil and suffering you bring on other people," said the judge to Knowles.

RECORD QUOTED

Pointing out Brooks had been in trouble before and had not a good record, the judge said he regarded his offence as much more serious than that of Knowles. Elaborate preparations, including a collapsible canvas boat, had been made by Brooks, said the judge.

"I regard you as one of the higher-ups in the game than Knowles," said the judge to Brooks.

Brooks had employed Knowles, explained the judge.

On the expiration of his sentence, Brooks will be deported to the United States. Knowles is an Englishman.

AS TROOPS MOVE CHIANG SEEKS TO AVOID CLASH

Tokio, July 18.—Japanese news agency dispatches to-night reported martial law had been proclaimed in Harbin after announcement of the diplomatic break between Russia and China.

All newspapers, including Japanese, were censored. Business was at a standstill and the streets were heavily patrolled by Chinese soldiers.

General Chang Ching-hui issued a proclamation that the death penalty would be enforced on persons spreading alarmist reports.

Concentration of Russian troops opposite Manchuria was said to be growing rapidly heavier.

REPRESENTATIONS BY JAPAN

Tokio, July 18.—Although the Japanese Government is maintaining an attitude of watchful waiting on the Manchuria situation since Russia broke relations with China, it was indicated this afternoon there was a possibility of Japan's making representations to both China and Russia with a view to the maintenance of peace.

When news of Russia's break with China came the first reaction in official quarters here was undisguised surprise and apprehension. It had been thought the Nanking Government note was sufficiently conciliatory to prevent any abrupt action.

Some officials expressed fear that the breach, especially withdrawal of Russians from China, would be just the prelude to actual hostilities. Particularly was concern expressed at disruption of the facilities of the Chinese Eastern Railway at its connections with the Trans-Siberian Railway, the principal mail link between Europe and the Orient.

Moscow, July 18.—Soviet Russia proceeded to-day to make effective immediately a complete break in relations with the Chinese Nationalist Government. The action portended possibly the gravest consequences.

Russian representatives, both trade and diplomatic, in China were ordered home, railway communications between the two countries were suspended and Chinese officials in Russia were told they must leave immediately. The break was made last night almost to the hour-upon expiration of a three-day ultimatum given by Moscow to Nanking demanding revocation of the status in Manchuria, where Chinese officials had seized the Russian-owned Chinese Eastern Railway. The Russians allowed twenty-four hours for transmission and translation of the ultimatum.

REPLY DECLARED UNSATISFACTORY

A note to Sia Wen-sun, Chinese Charge d'Affaires here, from L. M. Karakhan, Vice-Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, announced the Soviet action, the note saying Nanking's answer to the Moscow ultimatum had been entirely unsatisfactory.

M. Karakhan's note said all means of reaching an amicable settlement of the situation growing out of events in Manchuria had been exhausted.

THREE PROPOSALS

The note in part was as follows: "Desirous of restoring the legal basis of relations between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and China, disturbed by the Chinese authorities, the Soviet Government advanced in its first note three absolutely necessary and perfectly moderate proposals. The Chinese Government practically has rejected these proposals.

"Instead of restoring the Peking-Mukden agreement (that of 1924), the Chinese note sanctions a one-sided abrogation of the agreement, thereby destroying the possibility of normal relations between the two countries. Instead of reversing the unlawful actions of the Tupan of the Chinese railway, the Chinese note sanctions them, thereby justifying seizure of the railway.

"The Chinese note sanctions unlawful repressions against Soviet citizens and institutions and hypocritically attempts to justify them by reference to mass repressions of Chinese citizens in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The Chinese Government is well aware repressions in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics were employed only against a negligible group of spies, opium traders, Denkhers, smugglers and other criminal elements.

NO CONFERENCE

"The Chinese note evades the question of immediate summoning possibility of amicable settlement of the dispute. References in the Chinese note to propaganda as an excuse for the unlawful action of the Chinese authorities is false and hypocritical, since the Chinese authorities possess sufficient means to prevent and stop such activity, had it actually occurred.

"... seizing the railway and severing treaty relations existing between the Union of Soviet Socialist Russia and China.

Get rid of them Permanently with "Fruit-a-tives"

"Fruit-a-tives will rid you of gas, flatulence, or pain after eating, and make life worth living again. Mrs. Annie Glover, Ottawa writes:

"A sufferer from indigestion, constipation, dreadful stomach pains, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'. Soon these ills were a thing of the past."

"Fruit-a-tives" acts naturally on the system. Gently and quickly it strengthens the whole digestive tract. It swakens liver, bowels and kidneys, soothes the stomach. Get a 25c or 50c box at your druggist's to-day. End digestive troubles.

actions on the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Chinese note becomes especially clear from the official press declaration of President Chiang Kai-shek, who justifies the unlawful actions on the railway and plainly declares:

"Our measures are designed to take over the Chinese Eastern Railway. There is nothing unusual in the measures to take the railway in our hands. We first want to take over the railway and then take up discussion of the other question."

"These statements leave no doubts as to the real meaning of the Chinese note."

The note added the Moscow Government would reserve all the rights arising from the Peking-Mukden agreement of 1924.

This agreement established a joint Chinese-Russian board of control, known as the "Board of Ten," for the Russian-owned railway, which was built in the czarist days, and is a most important segment of the Trans-Siberian Railway from western Russia to Vladivostok.

TREATY APPEAL

London, July 18.—The Kellogg Anti-War Treaty and the League of Nations were looked to by observers to-day to stave off the threat of war between China and Russia.

China is a member of the League of Nations. Russia, not a member of the League, signed the Kellogg treaty, renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

There was wide doubt to-day that either country was in a position to wage war, despite reports of considerable troop movements by both to the trouble area.

PROVINCES TO RULE CANADIAN FORESTS

Ottawa, July 18.—A Dominion-wide inventory of the forest resources of Canada is now being organized, according to the Canadian weekly trade review just issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway. A conference was recently held here at which co-operation was assured between the Dominion and the provincial authorities. This conference was presided over by Charles Stewart, Federal Minister of the Interior, and was attended by representatives of Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and Nova Scotia.

The problem of forest conservation, says the review, is becoming increasingly a matter for the provinces, as the Dominion is negotiating for the return of lands and other natural resources to the Western Provinces. When that process is completed forest wealth will be under provincial control everywhere except in the territories not organized into provinces. The Western Provinces, in taking over the lands, will receive rich timber resources in their northern areas, the review says, and continues:

"The forest has been for many years one of the chief sources of wealth in Canada. In the earlier phases lumber in various stages of manufacture was the chief export secured. More recently pulp and paper industry has forged to the front, and it has become the outstanding consideration in the problem. There have been available for the forest industries immense stands of timber, and the supplies available are still great.

"It is now being realized, however, that the day will come when provision must be made for new growth in this large group of industries is not to lack for raw material. The pulp industry, with its huge demands, has brought this phase of the situation to the front. What is being aimed at is that the process of 'mining,' which has characterized previous development, should be transformed into one of 'cropping' the annual growth.

"Some of the provinces have already been reforesting for a number of years, but so far no systematic survey has been made of the forest wealth of the whole Dominion. The recent conference in Ottawa, for its purpose the organization of such an inventory.

"During the last five years while exports of paper have risen rapidly, there has been a fall in the export of unmanufactured wood and a very slight increase in exports of manufactured wood. In the fiscal year ended in March, 1929, the exports of paper from the Dominion were valued at $96,957,000. In the year ended in March of the present year the value of these exports was $148,394,000.

"On the other hand, in the earlier year the exports of unmanufactured wood were valued at $126,946,000 while in the past year they were $91,675,000; an exports of manufactured wood rose from $48,531,000 in the former to $49,048,000 in the latter year.

"Another feature of recent development is the relative increase of newspaper production in Canada as compared with the United States. Only four years ago, in the first five months of 1925 the production of newspaper in Canada was 623,143 tons and in the United States 634,106 tons. For the corresponding period of the present year the production of newspaper in Canada has been 1,089,867 tons as against 580,418 tons in the United States."

YOU can make the two essential tire tests in the shop of any Goodyear Selected Dealer

There are only two things you need to know about an automobile tire.

- 1 Does the tread grip the road?
- 2 Will the carcass stand up under the blows of driving?

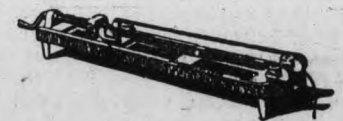

It's easy to prove these things. Go to any Goodyear Selected Dealer's and make these tests.

1 The Tread Test

Press your hand down on the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. Feel the grip of the deep-cut sharp-edged blocks, placed in the centre of the tread where they belong.

2 The Carcass Test

Ask the Goodyear dealer to show you on his cord-testing machine the greater stretch in Goodyear Supertwist cords over ordinary cords. This extra stretch gives the Goodyear carcass its greater vitality, enabling it to withstand road shocks.

Make these two tests on any other tire you like. The answer will be inevitably "Goodyears".

BUT NOT TO VICTORIA

ON THE WAY TO THE PACIFIC Coast is a big tri-motored Fokker. It is the property of the Western Canada Airways and is making its present journey in the interests of the proposed air mail routes in western Canada. Officials of the Manitoba Government, including Premier Bracken, and of the airway organization are on board.

The destination of this machine, according to dispatches from Prairie points, is Vancouver. No mention is made of Victoria. There is nothing very surprising about this. It is hardly likely that the company would be willing to expose such a large and valuable machine to the risks which would attend landing on what is at best an improvised aerodrome at Lansdowne Road.

It is evident from what has been taking place in recent weeks that British Columbia is justified in looking forward to an ever-increasing volume of aeroplane travel. It is being hinted, moreover, that the various communities which either have established airports or are about to do so are investigating the feasibility of investing in machines for the purpose of attracting tourists for aerial sight-seeing trips. With such an arrangement, it is being argued, many beauty spots—otherwise wholly inaccessible—may be viewed from the air in comfort and safety.

We may assume that as soon as it has established its airport—for which $300,000 already has been voted by the taxpayers—Vancouver will embark upon some such enterprise as this. From that city, of course, tours over all the most fascinating points of Vancouver Island could be commenced, while the attractions of the Mainland within a considerable radius also would be included in any aerial excursion programme.

Some little time may elapse before the public will take to flying as enthusiastically as it has taken to motoring. But so much progress has been made in aerial transportation in the last few years that what is a novelty to-day becomes commonplace to-morrow. What Victoria should consider, therefore, is its capacity or desire to share in this business. Our first move must be the establishment of an airport with adequate facilities for the reception and handling of land machines. Some sceptics reply to this suggestion with an expression of doubt as to whether the time is ripe for the expenditure of even the small amount of money that would be required.

This attitude reminds us of the fond mother who told her young offspring not to go into the water until he could swim. Hence, if Victoria is to remain on the highway of aerial travel, as well as on the steamship and automobile highway, it first must furnish itself with an airport. The only alternative is a general announcement warning land machines to steer clear of this part of Vancouver Island.

RUSSIA AND CHINA

LATEST DISPATCHES REPORT THE massing of Chinese and Russian troops on the Manchurian-Siberian border. This news follows closely upon the announcement that the Soviet Government has severed diplomatic relations with the Nationalist Government of China.

It would no doubt be exaggerating the condition of affairs to suggest that war between the two countries is inevitable. But the atmosphere is bound to be highly inflammable as long as armed men glare at one another across an international boundary.

Just what lies behind China's action in seizing the Chinese Eastern Railway—which is the cause of all the trouble—we may learn later on. A great deal of Russian money went into the original construction of this line, and the successor of the old regime in Russia now is experiencing what it feels like to have property confiscated. It is getting some of its own medicine.

Viewed from the wider aspect, however, two features of the dispute appear to stand out clearly. One is the obvious intention of the Chinese to rid the country of Soviet officials and such Soviet influences as have survived the earlier processes of expulsion. The other is a new manifestation of the growing national consciousness which the action of the Nationalist Government reflects.

Whether China's course in this matter was a wise one, only the events will prove. War between China and Russia might involve Japan in the event of Russian success in the field.

CITIZENSHIP AND WAR

BECAUSE HE REFUSED TO PLEDGE himself to bear arms for the United States, Dr. Douglas C. Macintosh, Canadian professor at Yale University, has failed to qualify for citizenship. But the case seems to have attracted a good deal of attention, and a number of influential journals are speaking plainly about it.

The Columbus Ohio State Journal recalls the case of Madame Schwimmer, an acknowledged pacifist, also denied citizenship, and says that "when such intelligent people as these are barred from American citizenship, it makes our naturalization laws look extremely silly." This newspaper also points out that both Madame Schwimmer and Dr. Macintosh are too old to be drafted into military service, while The New York World quotes the latter's explanation of the conditions under which he would be prepared to bear arms. He says:

On this matter of bearing arms, there are just three stands you can take. One is out-and-out pacifism. One is the stand I have taken, that I will bear arms if I believe it is for the welfare of mankind. The third is that you will bear arms in any war, if the position Judge Burrows holds is necessary for citizenship.

I believe the first two are the only ones possible for a Christian. Christian ethics, as I view them, make it a man's duty to act for the welfare of all mankind, including his own nation. A man's first duty is toward his family, but not against the welfare of his nation. A man's duty is to his nation, but not against the welfare of all mankind.

Another great war would be such an irreparable calamity for the world that I cannot pledge myself in advance to support it. I am not a pacifist. If the welfare of the world were threatened, I would fight for it.

The World interprets the ruling of the judge in the case of the Canadian professor as a declaration that a citizen, be he native-born or naturalized, loses all right of individual judgment and action the moment that Congress declares that a state of war exists; that every citizen should thereafter be as completely at the disposition of the President as if he were a soldier. The World then bares the situation this way:

The absoluteness of this doctrine is as naive as it is intolerable. The majority of wars in which any great power engages are no life-and-death struggles in which its existence is at stake, but little wars of policy, interest, or accident. It is absurd to lay down a rule which makes it the absolute obligation of the citizen to give unquestioning support to every war. Such a rule would condemn Calhoun and Lincoln, who opposed the Mexican War.

The rule is contrary to the fundamental policy of the United States. It tacitly assumes that a declaration of war puts universal conscription into effect. We do not have, and there is no prospect that we shall have, a permanent conscription law. Our fundamental military policy is, and always has been, voluntary—that is to say, based on such right of private judgment as Dr. Macintosh asserts. Conscription has been invoked twice in our history, during the Civil War and during the World War, and immediately abandoned at the end of these wars. When an extraordinary emergency of this kind arises, men of such manifest good faith as Dr. Macintosh will present no serious problem. He presented none to Canada during the World War.

Since conscription is not our permanent policy, it would seem to be going pretty far for judges to deal with applicants for citizenship as if conscription was our permanent policy.

The great majority of the newspapers, however, disagree with the views expressed by The World. The Charleston Mail says that Dr. Macintosh should not be accorded privileges "that are denied our native-born." Others agree that there might be no danger in granting Dr. Macintosh the rights of citizenship; but The Washington Star asks "how is it possible to make a rule for one man, and another rule for the great majority?" The Springfield Republican sums it up by reminding the American people that "good citizenship and duty to one's country permit of no reservations." Here is the view of The Kansas City Star:

Dr. Macintosh is an ordained minister. He is also in his fifty-third year. Because of these two things, it is altogether unlikely that he would have been called upon personally to bear arms or engage in national defence.

But the issue, as the court emphasized in the Schwimmer case, is the probable influence of that kind of position, especially in the event of conflict. It is neither expedient, wise, nor legally possible to make exceptions where a statement of an applicant for citizenship has made the issue definite and clear.

The readiness of Professor Macintosh to take up arms in a "just" war hardly helps the situation. If the individual is left to pass upon the issue for himself in each case, there is established the principle by which each person selects the laws he will obey and those he will ignore. With that principle at work, there soon would be no country for anybody to defend.

OUR CENSUS

IN A YOUNG AND GROWING COUNTRY like Canada it should be good business to take the national census every five years, instead of every ten, as now prevails.

It is not necessary to go farther afield than our own community to understand how the present system may work to the detriment of a city. For example, the population of Victoria Municipality, according to the census of 1921, is just a little more than 37,000. Obviously our population now should be much nearer the 50,000 mark; but various publications continue to put the figure at 37,000. Not many who would be interested in Victoria would take the trouble to investigate further, to make allowances for the passage of eight years. Consequently, in their minds, we are a city of 37,000.

AT FORRES

To lunch and talk peace with Ambassador Dawes on Sunday the British Prime Minister has chosen a spot with far memories. At Forres King Duff was murdered. There, also, among several places, Macbeth slew Duncan. It is the setting of the second scene of the first act of "Macbeth," where the bleeding sergeant told Duncan and his sons how Macbeth and Banquo had knocked the rebels for a row of claymores, including

"The merciless Macdonwald—Worthy to be a rebel, for to that The multiplying villainies of nature Do swarm upon him," etc.

Times change, and Macdonalds, Ramsays, far from merciless, announce that he and General Dawes will open the "great questions of Anglo-American co-operation in the cause of disarmament and permanent peace." The ghost of Lady Macbeth, most determined advocate of armament, will kindly stay out of the dining-room at Forres. The Wolf of Badenoch is requested not to howl. If the Weird Sisters are in the neighborhood, will they kindly refrain from making false prophecies about Russia? Even a whisper of "hell an' Maria" would be dangerous in this place of red tradition.

By H. B. W.

IN the unblemished columns of an early morning contemporary along Broad Street appeared, this week, an announcement which was greeted with mixed gratification and doubt by those who have at heart the happiness of our Island paradise. This dispatch stated that at Qualicum an enterprising gentleman has successfully established a "minx farm" and is confident that his operations will expand rapidly. Now, of course, no one will confuse that small insignificant creature, the minx, with the product of this unique Island institution, for the minx, of course, is a larger and far more attractive mammal, described in my dictionary as "a pert and forward girl."

THIS being so, I do not know how to regard the project now under way at Qualicum, for while it may be the foundation of a great and prosperous industry, on the other hand, the existence of minx in any larger number than at present many tend to frighten away from these shores many desirable residents. Opposed to that argument, however, is the possibility that when the world knows that minx are so few among our female population that we like to raise them on farms, it will hail this as a blessed spot and heavy immigration will follow. Whatever may be the ultimate results of this project, unparalleled anywhere else, it is evident that the production of minx is going to proceed at a rate which few of us had dreamed possible. For the Qualicum operator, we are told, started last year "with two pair of minx and states he has had two litters and now has fourteen. All are doing well." I suppose it is our healthful Island climate.

THIS column's little appeal on behalf of young Canada on the march to Elk Lake, has gone further than it had dared to hope and produced results beyond its wildest dreams. For bowling alone up fifty yards to-day came three automobiles, two in advance, driven by Canadians, the third by an American. Three lads, bathing in the lake, had their arms, waved for a ride. The two Canadian cars passed them with a roar. There didn't seem much prospect of the boys getting to Elk Lake, for the American gentleman, driving his huge grey limousine, was stout, prosperous and hard-bodded. They thought there was no use.

THE huge grey limousine passed them, and then with a shriek of grinding brakes, it stopped and the stout American gentleman peered out the side as if a new idea had occurred to him. Instead of waiting for them to catch up with him, the American, with some trouble, for it was a big car, hard to handle, and the traffic was heavy, slowly backed up fifty yards to-day three dusty young passengers to full possession of his immaculate, plush-covered rear seat. And the moral of this tale, little children, is that a limousine, as well as a filter, may sometimes have a heart.

RICHARD D. FETHERSTONHAUGH, veteran mining engineer of Cariboo and Atlin, died this week in Vancouver. It will be interesting to old-timers, who knew these two men in their prime, to recall that Mr. Fetherstonhaugh and the late James Hawthornthwaite, another mining man of note, bore the longest names in the British Columbia directory. It is reported that when a friend introduced the two he said: "Mr. Hawthornthwaite, I want you to meet Mr. Fetherstonhaugh—now you can fight it out as to which tried hardest to steal the alphabet."

WHEN the misguided fathers of their country put Washington, D.C., on the steaming mudflats of the Potomac, of course, they couldn't be expected to look forward to the tariff issue of 1929. But the tariff issue of 1929, I hold to be the direct result of that fatal decision. In summer, says Time, much had been said of the "horses on Washington streets heave and collapse. Eggs are fried on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. Riders gather about the White House's office, 100 yards away, to watch the thermometer break 100 degrees at mid-afternoon. Downtown streets are virtually deserted from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Men in the street go about in their shirt sleeves. Everybody is away. Only about 400,000 nobodies, including the hot President and his aides, remain behind. About 150 quarts of water per month (over a gallon a day) are removed from the humid air of the House of Representatives."

With eggs frying in the streets, thermometers breaking in despair, everybody away, horses falling down dead, and over a gallon of water collecting in the legislative chambers daily out of the humid air, it is any wonder that the United States Congress has to take it out on somebody with the most convenient weapon at hand, the tariff. In the autumn, when the cool dry winds sweep horses past collapsing and eggs no longer fry on the street corners, we shall find that the tariff bill has cooled down also.

IF OFFICERS of His Majesty's crack cavalry regiments ever go to the talkies, they must be lying in wait on some lonely road with sharpened lances and flashing sabres for one Richard Dix, of Hollywood. For I found in the columns of a local paper of recent date, an advertisement for a talkie in which Mr. Dix (with a new-born black mustache) plays the part of a British cavalry officer in India and this advertisement describes the master thus: "Hordes of frantic native horsemen sweeping across the desert! (It was in the mountains and the natives were on foot, to be exact, but what are a few Himalayas and some old horses between friends?) Trembling women facing a cruel date at the hands of wild fanatics! Dix, the flashing officer, to the rescue! Now, no cavalry officer can object to hordes of

SUMMER FLOWER SHOW

To the Editor:—The growing popularity of chrysanthemum growing in and around Victoria has made it remarkable that in the past no attempt has been made to hold an exhibit of these truly wonderful blooms. Recognition of the fact that the beauty of our autumn gardens depends in no small measure on the wealth of bloom which the chrysanthemum gives has suggested to the Victoria Horticultural Society that the time is ripe to invite the co-operation of the many gardeners who are interested in the further increase of flower-beauty in the city. Accordingly, a committee has been appointed which has drawn up a draft schedule for a chrysanthemum show.

It is in the hope that many who are not in the habit of showing the products of their gardens as well as those who have won wide reputations for the quality of their exhibits—will

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, July 18, 1904

This morning the thirty-first annual meet of the British Columbia Rifle Association opened at the Clover Point range. There were eighty-eight contestants in attendance representing almost all parts of the Province.

Misfortune overtook the magnificent C.P.R. steamship Princess Victoria, Captain Griffin, on her way to Vancouver on Sunday. The steamer struck on Prospect Point in almost the exact spot where the old Beaver, the pioneer of these waters, left her bones, rebounded and proceeded to Vancouver, landed her passengers and mails in good time, and then awaited orders.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—Southerly winds, fair and warm.

The lacrosse game at the Caledonia grounds, on Saturday afternoon, which went to Vancouver by a score of six to five, was the most exciting struggle of its kind held here for many a day.

For the past forty-eight hours the Lynn Canal C.P.R. liner Princess May, Captain McLeod has been acting as a substitute for the injured Princess Victoria. She arrived from the north yesterday morning and last night took the Seattle run.

Completing one of her short trips down the West Coast the steamer Queen City, arrived this morning with a small number of passengers.

Madison, Wis., July 18.—Dad and the boys have been "batching it" in 100 farm homes of Wisconsin this summer. Mother has been in Madison taking a "rest," attending the university extension lecture course. With her was grandmother. "It's the kind of rest," one of them said, "in which for the first time in my life I can lie in bed and wait for somebody to call me to breakfast."

ALUMINUM TRAIN MAKES DEBUT

Pittsburgh, July 18.—The new aluminum street car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company was built for vision. The windows are without the usual paneled obstructions, and can be raised or lowered as an automobile's. The entire car, body and fittings, is of aluminum and the car is only a little more than half as heavy as one of steel, giving the car a speed of forty-five miles an hour. The floors are nonskid. Lights are subdued. The painting is novel. The roof and belt rail stripe are Karnak green. Additional striping is in argent. Inside, the ceiling is Castilian ivory, the upper part of the sides shell-drake green and the lower part is finished in Verdania green. Seats are form fitting and individual as in the latest motor busses. The car is the first of its kind in the world.

CITY FIREMAN TAKES BRIDE

Miss D. A. Rudd and Mr. George F. H. Farmer United at Bride's Home

A quiet wedding took place at the family residence, Burnside Road, on Tuesday, when the Rev. W. J. Kelly united in marriage Dorothy Anabelle Rudd, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jno William Rudd, and Mr. George F. H. Farmer, city fireman, son of the late Mr. Frederic Farmer, of London, England.

Rudd and the matron of honor Mrs. Martha N. Kelly, sister of the bride. The presents were both numerous and costly and were happily chosen for service and beauty.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence which was tastefully decorated with flowers grown on the estate. During the serving of refreshments the members of the City Firemen's Band made a informal visit bringing their congratulations to their colleague, and rendered some excellent music.

The happy pair left the next morning for Seattle and will make an extended motor tour through the Canadian Rockies. On their return they will reside in Victoria.

TWO AVIATORS LOSE LIVES

Detroit, July 18.—Melvin E. Dare, Detroit aeroplane inventor, and his pilot, S. W. Brown, former army aviator stationed at Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., were killed in a crash at the Bouilly Airport here late yesterday. Their plane fell from a height of seventy-five feet while they were making an experimental flight. A portion of the left wing was torn off and then the ship nose-dived to earth.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. 2 stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

A Letter Bursting With Good Suggestions

Mrs. M. H. writes—"I have read so often of mothers having trouble with their babies refusing to eat. A baby sucks naturally to get his food, so that when a spoon is substituted for the breast or bottle, he does not know how to swallow without first sucking. If food is placed on the front part of his tongue, sucking will push the food out and the mother thinks the baby is spitting it out. If the mother, instead of exciting the child by fear that he won't eat, and that something terrible will happen if he doesn't, would lean him backward slightly and place the food well back on his tongue, and patiently keep on trying, it is probable that he would learn to eat in a short time. But if she worries, he can feel the tension of her muscles as she holds him, and this excites and confuses him, making it all the more difficult to feed him. This idea came from 'Child Guidance' by Blanton and Blanton.

"I take my little tots to the Public Library and let them check out their own books. I have four, the oldest four, the next three, the third two and a baby of nine months. They simply radiate health, have never been sick a day in their lives and have slept the whole night through ever since coming from the hospital, which seems almost too good to be true.

Bishop Brewing Accepts Call to Vancouver Church

Vancouver, July 18.—Bishop Willard Brewing, head of the Reformed Episcopal Church of both Canada and the Northern United States, has accepted a call to the New United Church which will be built on Burrard Street here, following the amalgamation of three churches of the United Church of Canada, namely: Wesley (formerly Methodist), St. Andrew's (formerly Presbyterian), and St. John's (formerly Congregational).

Bishop Brewing, now in Ontario, where he recently went to consult his own organization, has telegraphed his decision to accept the call and to move to Vancouver in 1930. During the last six months Bishop Brewing has been resident in British Columbia, having come west for a rest and to look after the interests of his denomination in New Westminster and Victoria.

Thus the United Church, breaking down the inter denominational barriers with the same broad and tolerant spirit which made its own engagement a possibility, has gone outside of its own bounds to find a man to fill one of its most important pulpits in British Columbia.

LOIS PLANS AN EFFECTIVE TABLE

By Florence La Canke

When Dorothy told Lois that she had just received a ring from Arthur, Lois asked for the fun and pleasure of giving Dorothy an announcement party. "Nancy gave one for me, not so long ago, and I know how thrilled and pleased I was. I vowed then that I would pass on that happiness to some one else and there is no one for whom I would rather entertain." So the date was set and Lois made her plans.

She decided on tulips for the centerpiece. She rather thought they were appropriate for an engagement luncheon, and anyway they were at their most gorgeous best. With flowers like that for centerpiece she knew she would have to key her color scheme rather high. She could not have baby blue nor shell pink.

Lois had been at engagement luncheons where the table was so tricked out in announcement trimmings that it looked silly and overdone. She decided to keep hers simple. Since the luncheon was given in the day time she ruled against candles. They should never be on a table unless they are lighted and who needs candle illumination on a spring day at noon or one o'clock? She hated to give them up because she had some lovely candlesticks which went well with one of her pottery jugs.

That, too, was discarded, however, since it crowded the flowers too closely. Each tulip with its leaves lost its individuality. Instead of a centerpiece of tulips she had a bouquet. She preferred to use a shallow glass dish with a glass flower holder. A few tulips arranged gracefully were stunning and kept their individuality. And incidentally, such a small number of flowers is cheaper or easier to get from one's own garden.

Engagements mean showers. If you are interested write to Nancy Page, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, asking for her leaflet on Showers.

MOTHERS And THEIR CHILDREN

COLORED ANIMALS

I purchased a supply of four-inch colored cardboard cards from the local print shop and these have afforded my four-year-old son many hours of amusement. He traces animals, flowers and other things on them, and with a large safety pin pricks holes in the outline at about one-eighth inch intervals. Then he sews around the outline, using different colored embroidery floss and a large eyed darning needle. The effect is very pretty and my son is quite proud of his handiwork.

Canadian Marksmen Forging To Front At Bisley

"Muggsy" and His Giants To Make Big Stab to Halt March of Jaunty Pirates

Crucial Series for New York Team Opens at Polo Grounds To-day; Cubs Smother Philadelphia to Gain as Pittsburgh Divides Double-header With Boston; Douthit, With Double, Triple and Home Run, Big Noise in Cards' Win Over Giants; Athletics and Yankees Both Beaten.

With the National League race threatening momentarily to become a strictly private affair between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs, John McGraw deployed his forces upon the Polo Grounds front this morning in an attempt to stem the Corsair rush. The impending series may be called "crucial" for the Giants alone; to the jaunty Buccaneers it constitutes just four more ball games.

The Giants brushed up yesterday for their do-or-die effort by bowing courteously to the fallen St. Louis Cardinals, who came to life and accepted the decision by 6-1. The Pirates got only an even break at Boston, but nevertheless remained ten notches ahead of the Giants in the important column dealing with games lost. The Cubs profited from the Pirates' slip by smothering the Phillies, 16 to 3, and so gaining half a game on the leaders. The Pittsburgh margin now is just two games.

The defeat of Donie Bush's boys in the first game at Boston was most unexpected. Burtie Grimes was pitted against Harry Selbold, the veteran rookie from Reading, who held the Buccaneers to nine well-scattered hits as the Braves dusted Grimes for a 7-4 decision, the big spitballer's second defeat of the season.

The Pirates came back in the nightcap to win by 13 to 5 behind Remy Kremer.

Cubs Win in a Flurry of Hits

Charlie Root had a breeze in Philadelphia as eighteen Chicago hits beat a merry tune against the outer ramparts of Baker Bowl. Rogers Hornsby helped Root with a home run and two other hits.

The victory of the Cardinals at the Polo Grounds gave the league champions the odd decision in five and their first series victory since they took four straight from the Phillies in June. It also was the first time in more than a month that the Cards had succeeded in extending a winning streak beyond one game.

Taylor Douthit continued his batting spree, with a double, a triple and a homer, which drove in four runs. He led a fifth inning assault which earned four runs for the Cardinals and the rest of the afternoon off for Larry Benton. Hal Haid issued seven passes, but gave the Giants only four hits.

Brooklyn crowned their Cincinnati pitchers for seventeen hits to win the final game of the series by 10-5. The result delayed the march of the Reds upon seventh place, and kept the Robins within four games of fourth.

The Philadelphia Athletics dropped another one to the Cleveland Indians, who won by 5-2 behind Walter Miller's six-hit pitching. Young Bill Shores was the victim.

The Mackmen nevertheless remained eight games ahead of the New York Yankees who contrived to lose again to the Detroit Tigers. Babe Ruth's twenty-second homer and some smart pitching by Waite Hoyt up to the final crash went into the discard.

Yanks Fail With The Bases Loaded

In the big Detroit ninth Hoyt, Combs and Bengough so inserted one error apiece in among three Detroit hits and

The Flying Cop —By Jimmy Thompson

A new satellite in the firmament of sport is Art Key, the "gallant" cop of Toronto, who recently won the national United States Y.M.C.A. track title of America at Brooklyn, N.Y., defeating R. F. Brown, last year's winner.

He is now twenty-two, and started running when he was fifteen, when he joined up with the Monarch A.C. This year he joined the Toronto police force and the Police Athletic Association.

His first successes came in 1926, when he scored in a number of local races. He also annexed the Ontario indoor junior one-mile championship at Hamilton, a record which still stands. In 1927 he was chosen to run against Ritola (the Finnish star) in a special two-mile race at the indoor meet at Hamilton.

Ritola won, making a new Canadian record of 9:14. Key was 9:38—which is perhaps the best time ever made by a Canadian indoors. Being a member of the local Y.M.C.A., he has won practically all the distance championships of that organization for the past three years. He has attended the Millrose games on behalf of the Monarch Club twice. He won the 3,000 metre steeplechase championship of Canada last year, and was chosen for the 1928 Olympic team.

His recent victories are:
One mile, National Y.M.C.A. Championship, first.
One mile, Central Y.M.C.A. meet at Varsity Stadium, first (from scratch).
One mile, Gaelic Games, at Varsity Stadium, first.
Half-mile, Verdun, Quebec, first.

Youthful German Tennis Stars Will Attempt to Conquer U. S. Veterans

Daniel Prenn and Hans Moldenhauer Pitted Against "Big Bill" Tilden and Francis T. Hunter in Opening Singles Matches of Series to Decide Which Will Meet France in Davis Cup Final; Youth and Vigor Will Be Pitted Against Age and Experience.

Berlin, July 18.—The struggle of youth and vigor against age and experience is the order of the inter-zone final of the Davis Cup tennis competition, which starts here to-morrow on the courts of the Red and White Club, Germany, the newest sensation of international tennis, is placing its hopes in the hands of two young players, Daniel Prenn and Hans Moldenhauer, while the United States has chosen the veteran campaigners, William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, to carry the singles burden.

To-morrow's singles matches, which open the struggle of deciding whether Germany or the United States will meet France in the challenge round—Tilden against Moldenhauer and Hunter against Prenn. The order will be reversed for Sunday's final matches.

The doubles encounter, Saturday, brings the prospect of the most interesting match of the series. The Germans have discarded their team of Heinz Landmann and Heinrich Klinkenschroth, who carried Germany through the European zone preliminaries, but were defeated in the zone final against England. Prenn and Moldenhauer will play the doubles as well as the singles.

The United States has called on its youthful Wimbledon winners, John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison for the doubles.

The two young Americans amply proved their fitness for the post in yesterday's practice when, tired from a long trip from Spain, where they have been playing exhibitions, they allowed the British to take an easy two-sets from Tilden and Hunter.

Prenn is considered the strongest of the German players by virtue of his two-victories over English stars in the European zone final. The young doctor who holds the German championship, scored the deciding victory for Germany against England by winning the exciting final match by default after H. W. "Bunny" Austin collapsed.

Prenn was within one game of victory when his opponent had to default. Prenn also defeated J. C. Gregory in straight sets.

Moldenhauer provided one of the greatest surprises of the European zone play by defeating Austin on the first day of the German-English tie, but allowed the British to even the count at two matches apiece by losing his second singles encounter to Gregory.

Victoria Riflemen Playing Big Part In Fine Successes

Canada Has Fourteen Men Into Second Stage of King's Prize; Collings and Fyvie of Victoria Distinguish Themselves in Prince of Wales Match; Collings Has a 97 in King's Prize and Is Near Top.

Bisley Camp, Eng., July 18.—As the Empire meet of the National Rifle Association draws to a close two days hence, the Canadians are forging prominently to the front. Since Tuesday they have recaptured the imperial Kolapore Cup, have sent at least fourteen men into the second stage of the King's Prize to-morrow and have made themselves felt in the great contests for individual honors.

To-day three Canadians scored 67 out of a possible 70 in the Prince of Wales Prize at 300 and 600 yards—Lieut. Desmond Burke, Ottawa; Master Gunner Collings of Esquimaux, and Lieut. D. Fyvie, Victoria.

In the first range of the Alexandra Challenge Cup at 500 yards—the last at 600 yards, will not be fired until to-morrow—three Canadians had scored 34 out of 35. These were Lieut. Colonel R. M. Blair of Vancouver; Sergt. J. D. Sharpe, Montreal, and Sergt. Alexander Wilson, Hamilton.

Of the only two women competitors in the first stage of the King's Prize yesterday, Miss Blanche Babcock, well-known marksman, qualified for the second stage on Friday. She scored 97 out of a possible 105.

The other woman entrant, Miss Margery Foster, had trouble with her rifle and scored only indifferently.

Both women keep a chicken farm a few miles from Bisley. They were eligible for the big service rifle shoot yesterday, but present members of His Majesty's forces because they had driven ambulances during the World War.

Almost 1,000 marksmen entered the first stages of the King's Prize yesterday. They fired for a chance to be among the 300 in the second stage on Friday, when the number will again be cut to 100 for the final.

Last year and in 1927, Lieut. Burke was second in the final shoot for the King's Prize. In 1926 and 1925 he was eliminated in the first stage. Canada had eleven men in the second stage last year and nine in the final.

Aggregate Match Won By Emslie

The Elkhington aggregate, a challenge cup and $25, was won by Sergeant Major G. M. Emslie, of Toronto, with the highest aggregate in the Duke of Cambridge and Corporation of the City of London shoots. He also won the Corporation shoot both having been decided previously.

Lieut. Colonel Blair, of Vancouver, placed eighth and Lieut. Desmond Burke thirteenth in the aggregate, each winning $10.

FERMENTATION

—on a large scale—would convince you

If you could watch a huge mass of food seething and foaming in the process of fermentation you would appreciate the necessity of preventing fermentation in the mouth.

Food particles left around the teeth ferment and sometimes cause irreparable damage. They are the cause of most tooth troubles!

Fermentation is neither seen nor felt. That is why people often overlook it until irreparable damage has been done. It undermines the strength of gums and eats into the enamel.

SPEARMINT TOOTH PASTE

is compounded specially for its anti-fermentative qualities. Its light, soft foam penetrates into the places where the tooth brush fails to reach, and washes away the food particles, that cause fermentation. It is indispensable for clean, healthy teeth.

SAANICH BOARD CUTS CLASSES IN RURAL AREA

Saanichton and Prospect Lake Schools Reduced to One Room Each

Five Teachers Resign; Teachers to Be Transferred to Fill Vacancies

Saanichton and Prospect Lake schools will reopen for the fall term as one-room schools. The Saanich School Board last night decided to transport some of the pupils of Prospect Lake district to Royal Oak school. This will reduce attendance at Prospect Lake sufficiently to permit closure of one room.

Insufficient attendance to warrant retention of two teachers at Saanichton School has caused closure of one room. The board last night appointed J. A. Colbert to the staff, with a view to placement as principal at one of the two-room schools close to the city.

Resignations from the staff include: Miss D. Hartree and Miss S. G. Fisher, Tolmie School; Miss M. P. Kinnaird, Tillicum School; E. W. Elagburn and Miss H. E. Edwards, Craigflower School.

These vacancies will be filled by transfer of teachers hitherto in service at rural schools. Reorganization of the attendance at the western urban schools will be undertaken when schools reopen in September, to care for a portion of the attendance displaced from Tolmie School to provide quarters for the new high school. The bulk of the children who will be evicted from Tolmie School will be transported in buses to Lake Hill or accommodated in two spare rooms at Tolmie Primary School.

William Pearmain was appointed janitor of Royal Oak School.

TRUSTEES DECLARE FOR LATEST IDEAS IN HIGH SCHOOL

Plans for a two-story and basement high school of eight classrooms, with an auditorium accommodating 700 persons and a gymnasium, were last night laid before the Saanich School Board by Hubert Savase, A.R.B.A., and tabled for further study. At the suggestion of Trustee Frank V. Hobbs, Mr. Savase will investigate the merits of a type of high school now in vogue in California, and will report upon the adaptability of the system to Saanich conditions.

This California type of building was explained as having a large main administration building, which also houses the auditorium. Ground floor classrooms, in wings on either side, are arranged to permit of union of rooms as required. This type of building, when completed, surrounds a patio or playground and provides unusual safety to life in case of fire.

"We will not be building high schools often. We want the latest and best. We must not be afraid of the unusual," Chairman Hobbs remarked, and Trustee Jeanne commented, "Quite the contrary."

WHARF FIRE IN SEATTLE CAUSES HEAVY LOSSES

Pier Used By Union Pacific Scene of Spectacular Blaze

Seattle, July 18.—In Seattle's biggest waterfront fire since 1914, the Union Pacific dock was practically destroyed late yesterday, the loss being estimated at $1,000,000. Six injured firemen were taken to a hospital, suffering from burns and suffocation.

The fire started beneath the flooring on the bay end of the wharf. Apparatus was drawn from twenty stations to fight the blaze, and traffic was stopped on business streets while engines roared down Seattle's hills to the dock. The city's fire boats also were called out.

ACROBATIC TURNS ARE FEATURE OF KIDDIES'
REVUE AT COLISEUM

"The Winnipeg Kiddies' Revue," at the Coliseum Theatre, is said to be one of the finest shows of its kind ever seen in Victoria, and those who witnessed it this week have been enthusiastic in their praise.

The cast is composed of children between the ages of six and twelve years, who were especially selected for their charm and talent. The revue is under the personal supervision of Miss Hazel McLuskey, who also has the role of pianist and accompanist for the various turns.

Little Loretta Ross is one of the most dainty performers with the company. She is a tiny child who dances and sings delightfully. She completely captures the house with her charming interpretation of a number of modern and old-fashioned dances, cleverly done in costumes which are both pretty and graceful. Others on the bill are Bobby Laskey, tiny and inimitable comedian, Jean Walker, the ballad queen, and Margaret and Jean, harmony singers.

On the screen Manager George McEwan presents Anne Nichols' famous story, "Abie's Irish Rose."

DIRECTOR SHOWS
MOVIE ACTORS HOW TO DO THE TANGO

Director George Archambaud displayed an unsuspecting talent when he laid aside his megaphone in the midst of directing a scene for "Ladies of the Night Club," and did the Argentine Tango for the purpose of demonstrating certain steps that the dancers were having difficulty with. Archambaud tangoed for five consecutive minutes and was encored for more—but duty called him back to the megaphone. Archambaud is French and who ever heard of a Parisian who didn't know his tango? "Ladies of the Night Club" is showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

DAVEY LEE, CHILD STAR, APPEARS IN HIS FIRST TALKIE

The audience at the Capitol Theatre to-day where Warner Bros. new child star, Davey Lee, one hundred per cent talking film, "Sonny Boy," surrendered unanimously and completely to the charm and pose of the youngster. He is so natural and unstudied that he does not seem to be acting at all, but just to be living through the humorous, pathetic and thrilling moments of the picture. Young Davey is a big "find."

Sonny Boy, son of quarrelling parents, is stolen by the mother's sister to keep his father from running off to Europe with him. The aunt takes him to the apartment of the father's lawyer, who is to be gone for some days, when the chase grows hot. She pretends to be the lawyer's wife, and has to keep up the pretence when his parents arrive unexpectedly, and later when the lawyer himself returns. He learns who the girl is from her telephone conversation with the child's mother, and there is all sorts of a comedy mixup when she arrives followed by her husband who thinks she has an affair with his attorney.

FAMOUS CABARET
DOMINION PICTURE

The Club Casanova, Morton Downey's famous cabaret in New York, is pictured in Downey's first Pathe all talking melody picture, "Mother's Boy." Among the Casanova entertainers who appear in the fashionable cafe sequence of the production are De Leon and Beebe, famous tango dancers, and Ruthie Mayon, an athletic dancer whose rhythmic antics are unexcelled.

As a club entertainer, Mr. Downey sings several well-known catchy airs with excellent effect in the production. The story, written by Gene Markey, presents Mr. Downey as a young Irish boy living in New York. Tenement who achieves fame as a singer. There is a pretty love theme which has been admirably developed by Bradley Barker, the director, and there are many scenes filled with drama, thrill and deep appeal.

"Mother's Boy" which plays at the Dominion Theatre to-day, Friday and Saturday was directed by Bradley Barker under the supervision of Robert T. Kane, producer. James Seymour was supervisor of dialogue and V. S. Ashdown and J. A. Delaney, sound engineers, did the recording. The cameraman was Harry Stranding.

INTRIGUING STORY,
"PROWLERS OF SEA,"
OPENS AT COLUMBIA

"With this ring I pledge to you everything I have—my love, my faith, my life." With a throb in his voice, Captain Carlos de Neve said those words to Mercedes—and she betrayed him! For her country she stripped the man who loved her of his honor. With his kisses warm on her lips she plotted his ruin.

The story, romantic, thrilling and adventurous, of Captain de Neve and Mercedes is told in "Prowlers of the Sea," the Tiffany-Stahl production starring Ricardo Cortez and Carmen Myers at the Columbia Theatre to-day. Its plot was suggested by Jack London's story, "The Lancashire Queen."

British Columbia
World's Playground

The Bureau of Provincial Information of British Columbia, on instructions from Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, has issued an artistic booklet entitled "British Columbia—the Playground of the World," in order to bring to the attention of tourists and recreation-seekers the great possibilities offered in this regard by the Province.

The booklet, which has an attractive cover in three colors, is profusely illustrated with photo-engravings depicting various beauty spots, mountains, motor highways, picturesque scenes and seascapes, and its pages are further embellished with small line-drawings, framed, that block. It is re-faced by a brief outline of the romantic background of the Province, and the ensuing pages tell as far as possible within the limitations of space of the many and varied phases of recreational enjoyment offered to the tourist and holiday-seeker in the Province, which T. G. Longstaff, the noted British traveler, declared to be "destined to become the playground of the world."

The publication was prepared with respect to letter-press illustrations and art-work by the staff of the Bureau of Provincial Information and was provided by the King's Printer in the Government offices; in fact, the photo-engraving was the only work in connection with it done elsewhere than under the roof of the printing house. It is the first publication of the Province has got out for tourist purposes in this form, and the mechanical execution is fully up to the high standard always maintained by the King's Printer's staff for color-printing.

The Bureau of Provincial Information has also issued a revised edition of "Highways, Motor Camps and Stopping Places in British Columbia." Copies of both these publications may be had by any interested adult on application to the bureau.

SIXTEEN FIRE
DEATHS IN B.C.

Statistics of fire losses sustained in British Columbia in 1928, issued by Fire Marshal J. A. Thomas this week, show $2,667,554 as the damage incurred during twelve months of last year. Industrial risks and dwellings were the chief sources of fires, which took the lives of sixteen adults, but no children.

Though Victoria had thirty-nine more fires in 1928 than in 1927, the increased loss was only $3,167, this city maintaining its low-loss ratio records among all cities of a comparative size in Canada. Losses on B.C. industrial risks approached $1,000,000, and $800,000 was the loss on dwellings.

Causes of fires included defective chimneys and fireplaces, electrical wiring and installations, and miscellaneous defects.

During the year improvements were ordered in eighty-seven motion picture theatres, and inspections of business and public premises were carried out in all cities in the Province. The bill of loss, at $2,667,554, was $44,000 up from 1927.

OFFICERS NAMED BY NATIVE SONS

Dr. J. L. Macdougall, Vancouver, Heads Canadian Organization

Winnipeg, July 18.—Dr. J. L. Macdougall of Vancouver was elected national president of the Native Sons of Canada at the annual convention of the organization here yesterday afternoon. He succeeds Dr. James Cotton of Toronto, who retires from office.

Oscar L. Boulanger, K.C., M.P. for Bellechasse, Que., was named first vice-president, taking over the position formerly occupied by Dr. Macdougall. Gerald V. Felton, K.C., Edmonton, was elected second vice-president.

The positions of secretary and treasurer to two charter members of the Native Sons, who have managed the secretarial and financial development of the association since its inception, Arthur C. Pike of Victoria, B.C., was re-elected treasurer for the eighth successive year, and Robert D. MacLachlan of Victoria was made secretary, also for the eighth time.

Montreal was chosen for the 1930 annual convention.

NATIONAL FLAG

Expressing the wish that Canada should adopt a national flag, a resolution was passed urging that the distinguishing and predominant feature of any flag or any coat of arms purporting to represent Canada should be one or both of "her long recognized emblems—the maple leaf and the beaver."

Feeling was shown in a resolution adopted stating that in appointments to the public service Canadian-born citizens are given recognition "far below that to which they are entitled."

U.S. TARIFF ON CANADIAN WHEAT DECLARED ERROR

Millers Tell Senate Committee They Need Dominion Grain For Exports

Washington, July 18 (Canadian Press).—United States millers, testifying before the Senate finance committee yesterday, voiced emphatic opposition to the new House provision subjecting Canadian wheat, milled in bond in the United States for export to countries granting United States flour a preferential duty, to a tariff equal to the amount of such preference.

A considerable volume of Canadian wheat is imported into this country annually, milled in bond and shipped to Cuba, which grants United States flour a cut of twenty per cent, or 35 cents a bushel, in the normal tariff, and the provision is designed to give the Cuban market to flour made only from domestic wheat.

WOULD CONTINUE SYSTEM

W. C. Helm, vice-president of the Russell Miller Milling Company, with flour mills in Minneapolis, Buffalo and cities in North Dakota and Montana, urged retention of the existing privileges under the milling in bond provisions, contending Canadian wheat thus brought into the United States did not replace one bushel of domestic wheat in the Cuban market. He said his company could not export Canadian milled in bond wheat from its interior mills because of the transportation costs, and had established mills in Buffalo to be nearer its export markets.

Ice Cream Is a Valuable Food For Summer Months

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Food authorities and public health officials are everywhere now recognizing that ice cream is an excellent food, and when prepared in a sanitary manner, a highly desirable summer delight.

It has been established by scientific investigation that ice cream contains vitamins A and B. It has not been definitely established, however, just how much ice cream does contribute to a diet which contains liberal quantities of bread, meat, potatoes and cereals. Neither has it been shown just how far ice may go on ice cream alone.

This experiment was made by Dr. L. S. Palmer of the University of Minnesota, who tested the effects of diets consisting wholly of ice cream, diets consisting of one-third ice cream and a good general diet without vitamins on a series of animals. The experiment showed that the ice cream contributes valuable factors to a diet.

Standard vanilla ice cream was capable of promoting the growth at a moderate rate of the white rats so that they reached the normal or nearly normal size and weight. When the ice cream constituted at least one-third of the diet, the animals invariably grew well as compared with those on the diet without ice cream.

Ice cream contains, because of the milk that is in it, not only proteins, carbohydrates and fats but also vitamins A and B, a small amount of vitamin D and a considerable amount of mineral salts.

It is not generally recommended in diets for diabetics because of the sugar it contains, but it is in fact contraindicated in any other diets except those of small infants to whom frozen milk or frozen milk products of any kind may sometimes seem to be harmful.

In many instances invalids recovering from sore throats, from removal of the tonsils, or from diseases in which a slight fever may continue for some time find ice cream exceedingly refreshing and will take this as a food when no other food substance attracts them.

Midland Royalty
Earnings Rise Rapid

With the completion of purchases since its organization last March, Mid- land Royalty Corporation now owns interests in oil royalties on seventy- six separate producing properties in Oklahoma and Kansas, aggregating approximately 5,500 acres. J. Edward Jones, President, announced yesterday, according to word received here by Col. B. de Moissin. These properties are now producing 85,000 barrels of oil daily from 325 wells, with twenty- five additional wells drilling and con- siderably over 100 proved well loca- tions still undrilled.

"The company's rate of earnings has more than doubled since its organiza- tion on March 1 last," Mr. Jones said. "It's policy is to buy royalties on pro- ducing properties only and these prop- erties are being developed by operat- ing subsidiaries of Standard of New York, Gulf Oil Corporation, Standard of New Jersey, Royal Dutch-Shell and other principal oil companies. The J. Edward Jones field force, with head- quarters in Tulsa, Okla., and Indepe- dence, Kan., is now devoting prac- tically its entire efforts to the affairs of the Midland Royalty Corporation."

Motor Industry
Now Outstripping
Estimates For 1929

New York, July 18.—The motor in- dustry will establish new records this year, by a greater margin than pre- dicted at the time of the New York Auto Show, according to Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Auto- mobile Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Reeves says there is every indi- cation that production for the year will run to 5,200,000 vehicles.

Slocan-Rambler

Vancouver, B.C., July 18 (Stobie, Forlong-Meharey Roe)—M. Robertson, mine superintendent, reports that a raise will shortly be started on the ore shoot in No. 14 level at Slocan-Rambler Mine.

Machinery has arrived at Slocan Mine and it is expected to have compressor turning and actual mining operations commenced by Thursday.

IMPORTANCE OF RESEARCH

Even though some business men re- gard research as a lot of poppycock, those who are intelligent enough to appreciate what is going on in the scientific world realize both the dangers and advantages of research.

As all recognize, business must have certain known factors upon which to gauge its operation. The uncertainty of business have largely heretofore grown out of the question of manage- ment and competition.

The importance of research may be better realized in the fact that 30- 000,000 persons earn their living to- day, it has been estimated, in five in- dustries that did not exist or barely existed forty or even thirty years ago. These five industries include the au- tomobile, motion picture, radio, chemical and electrical industries, all of which have been commercially developed to a great degree through scientific and business research.—Frank Thayer in Thrift Magazine.

cities of the golden west. It is 113 miles from Spokane and fifty-two miles from Nelson, B.C. It will be come a wonderful tourist resort as well as an industrial city that will attract the attention of the financial world. "The construction of magnificent motor highways in the west is trans- forming social and economic condi- tions. A motor bus runs daily from Nelson through Metaline to Spokane a distance of 165 miles in six hours. Train service between these cities oc- cupies ten or twelve hours. Leaving Metaline after dinner some days ago, we motored to Spokane in two and one-half hours. The farmer, miner, prospector, merchant, commercial traveler and lumber men are greatly benefited by these motor highways, lakes, rivers and mountains, which will continue to focus on Pend Oreille the attention of the financial world and draw to it travelers, tourists and vis- itors from the ends of the earth."

"Butte, Montana, still stands alone as the greatest copper mining district of the world, and in saying this I am not overlooking Sudbury, Chili, Cerro de Pasco, Utah; or Green Cananea, Mexico. Butte will be producing copper when most of the other copper districts have passed into oblivion. Equally so, the region around districts will have exhausted their ore supplies. The mountains along the Pend Oreille, from Butte to the Columbia, are honeycombed with seemingly inex- haustible ores of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc. It is its wealth of water power and nonferrous metals, as well as the glorious beauty of its lakes, rivers and mountains, which will continue to focus on Pend Oreille the attention of the financial world and draw to it travelers, tourists and vis- itors from the ends of the earth."

The presentation of a handsome dinner service on behalf of City Hall employees was made by Mayor Ansonb to James Randolph McCann, who is to be married to-morrow to Miss Marjorie Neff of the staff of David Spencer Limited. Mr. McCann replied briefly to the good wishes extended to himself and his fiancée.

Willows Race Track Controversy Remains Unchanged, Says Mayor

There was no change in the Willows race track question at the City Hall to-day, beyond the announcement by Mayor Herbert Ansonb that the matter was in the hands of R. T. Elliott, the city's counsel, and that the $2,100 cheque tendered for the second time by the agreement holders had not been accepted. Mayor Ansonb said the question had been in the hands of the city's legal advisers from the first, and he had nothing further to state. If any development of which the council should be apprized should turn up, he would summon a council meeting, he concluded.

ADMIRALTY CASES ARE CLOSED TO-DAY

Confiscation of Second U.S. Vessel and Release of Another Ordered

Two Fishing Boats Were Confiscated and Five Freed in Extended Hearings

The condemnation of the United States fishing vessel Catherine B. was ordered by Mr. Justice Martin, in the Admiralty division of the Exchequer Court to-day, at the close of the Victoria sittings, in which seven cases had been heard.

The court, previously in the morning session, ordered the release of the vessel Mary C. Fischer, the sixth case on the list. At the close of the hearings the court was adjourned sine die. The results of the hearings since the court convened a week ago have been the confiscation of two United States fishing vessels for unwaranted presence in Canadian territorial waters, and the release of five others on the strength of justifiable grounds.

OWNERS PAY COSTS

In the case of the Mary C. Fischer the court ordered her release, but held that her owners pay the costs of their defence. Similarly in the case of some other vessels released the court had held that the seizure of the vessels by Canadian revenue officers had been conducted for probable cause and costs were not given against the Crown.

In ordering the condemnation of the Catherine B. the court held that no unavoidable reason had been shown by her owners for the vessel's presence on Canadian fishing grounds.

Counsel concerned in the hearings include John H. Aspinall and C. H. O'Halloran for the Crown and William Savage and A. H. Miller for the defence. Mr. Aspinall was associated in the defence of one vessel, with Mr. O'Halloran for the Crown.

The fate of the two condemned vessels, the 387GA and the Catherine B. awaits departmental decisions at Ottawa in respect to a sale, conversion, or other disposition, it was learned to-day.

PRIVATE GIFTS VITAL FACTOR IN UNIVERSITY

Louis O'Brien Suggests Service Clubs Develop Public Interest in University

Progress of University of California Shows Prospect Awaiting University of B.C.

Pointing to the development of the University of California as an example of what the people of British Columbia may expect the University of British Columbia to become in the course of fifty years, Dr. Louis O'Brien, assistant Dean of Men at Berkeley, this afternoon suggested to the Victoria Rotary Club, at the weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel, that development of public interest in, and support for, the University of British Columbia, would be an objective well worthy the consistent effort of Rotary Clubs and similar public service bodies.

Dr. O'Brien was introduced by Alfred Carmichael, president, as an outstanding example of success earned by a Victoria young man. He opened his address by recalling that in 1860 a college was formed at Oakland with two professors and eight students. Eight years later it was incorporated as the University of California, and shortly after moved to Berkeley then an unsettled area.

In the intervening sixty-one years it had grown to be the largest university in the United States, with 10,000 students at Berkeley and branches throughout California. It had become great also in advancing higher education in all branches.

At Los Angeles its college had 5,000 students and it operated two observatories, one being in Chile, said Dr. O'Brien. The university was spread throughout the state by its extension courses and extra-mural lectures, and had become the strongest organization for advancement of knowledge in the state of California, with nearly all the leading statesmen and professional men numbered among its alumni.

Pointing out that the university was now closely allied with the achieved and prospective development of California, Dr. O'Brien explained how the university had achieved its status in only sixty-three years.

MANY ENDOWMENTS

He believed the generous support of the state legislature had been an important but not basic factor. The explanation was to be found in generous private endowments, more than the fourteen buildings on the Berkeley campus being private benefactions. Invested funds provide scholarships for 250 students, a large number of graduate scholarships, and special funds provided assistance for students in financial difficulty. Losses from loan funds, administered by the dean of men, had been practically nil, despite lack of red tape.

LONG YEARLY LIST

The alumni had provided $1,500,000 for the great stadium, created research professorships, and experimental work, Dr. O'Brien said. A list of the benefactors of the University of California was a roll call of the business leaders of the state. The practice of reading annually the list of benefactions of the preceding year had to be abandoned because of the time required.

The early benefactors contributed because they believed that course the best way to advance the state, and the continued flood of gifts testified to the vision of those early givers, Dr. O'Brien considered.

He drew an analogy between the University of British Columbia to-day and the University of California fifty years ago. The Provincial Legislature was almost as generous as the California state legislature to-day and much more so than the California legislature fifty years ago.

The University of British Columbia required many additions to its equipment, Dr. O'Brien citing law, medical, dental and pharmacy schools among the courses not now available. He believed the people of British Columbia could see, in the development of California University, what this Province could hope to have in the future. Such a prospect would be impossible if development were to depend solely upon provincial support, but when the people of this Province began to realize what their university could achieve, private benefactions would commence to flow towards its support.

Such an undertaking as development of public interest in the University of British Columbia was a worthy objective for such bodies as Rotary Clubs, he concluded.

Jack O'Brien, father of Dr. O'Brien, was called to his rest and roundly applauded.

SOLOS ENJOYED

Mrs. Harry Lasenby, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Green, rendered two contralto solos during the luncheon. Eight members volunteered to provide cars for transportation of blind men and women to the garden party to be held at the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart on August 6.

Rev. M. W. J. Bruce invited the Rotarians to attend a garden party at his Mount Newton residence on Wednesday, July 24, the proceeds being devoted to provision of a bathing pool for children at Brentwood Bay.

In addition to the competitive displays, the British Columbia Government will have their usual display, the roses from the grounds of the Parliament Buildings being just now at their best. R. M. Palmer will also be down with a showing of his specialties, which are always greatly admired. The show will be open to the public at 2.30 p.m. and again at 10 p.m. Saturday.

More Mail For City Means More Mail Carriers

Another indication of the steady growth of Victoria was given to-day with the announcement by Postmaster G. A. Gardiner that five new mail carriers would be employed by the post office department commencing next week. Increased population, larger mails and general augmentation of the department's business has made the addition necessary.

Four routes will be created for the additional carriers, Mr. Gardiner said. A reorganization of the present delivery routes in the city has been made to provide for the handling of the larger mails. It is probable the augmented service will go into operation next week.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(Branson, Brown and Co. Ltd.)
Winnipeg, Jan. 18.—The wheat market was extremely erratic today, prices changing rapidly at times, and the range for the day was about seven cents. At the opening low point the market was four cents down from the previous close, with plenty of selling based on the extremely weak cables. On the opening break the market received excellent support with general public buying and prices reacted sharply, climbing to 2½ cents over the previous close.

October reached 169½, a new high on the recent move. From this point the market broke back over 5 cents, but made fair recovery from the 70-4, some dips. There was heavy liquidation and profit-taking on the bulges, with good speculative support on the breaks, but in the end the market was 2½ cents heavier and gave evidence of being overbought.

The upturns are difficult to hold. There was practically no market received excellent support with general public buying and prices reacted sharply, climbing to 2½ cents over the previous close.

There was nothing done overnight in the way of export business. B. B. millers and the Continent are getting Plate wheat considerably cheaper than Canadian. Spread on No. 4, 5 and 6 grades were mostly two cents lower, while the others were unchanged. There was no moisture received in western Canada in the last twenty-four hours, but temperatures, while high in southern Alberta, were somewhat more moderate generally. The forecast held out the promise for some showers in Alberta. Winnipeg closed 3 to 3½ lower.

Coarse grains—These markets all closed lower, although considerable strength was shown at one time. Corn and export demand continues very small and no export business can be located in anything.

The flax market also sold off and closed 4 to 8 cents lower, with scattered liquidation in evidence. No other feature.

Chicago, July 18.—Wheat: While the situation in the northwest and Canada continues extremely bullish, prices have had an advance of over 50 cents, and although new high prices were established today following an early decline, heavy profit-taking met all the bulges and the market sold off later. Liverpool was weak early but closed strong, with prices following a similar pattern to 1½ higher than the previous day. The Argentine on which the selling has been based proving to be too light in that country. Buenos Ayres at midday was 1½ to 1½ lower.

Canadian estimates indicate about half a crop with deterioration continuing. The forecast was for general 1½ fair and warm weather, with local showers possible to-morrow. Outlook of the fact that prices have had a big advance, there is nothing wrong with bull side, and look for ultimately higher prices. However, with the persistent profit-taking taking place, a further reaction is not unlikely, especially should there be any heavy rains.

Technically the market is probably somewhat overbought and a reaction of moderate proportions would put the trade in better shape. Corn: Had an erratic course, offerings were heavy on bulges, while there was excellent commission house support of the demand. The market on the set-backs. Cash demand was moderate with sales of 50,000 bushels and sales to arrive 60,000 bushels.

Cash basis was unchanged to ½ higher. Weather conditions were generally favorable. The market like wheat has had a good advance, and a reactionary tendency temporarily would not be unhealthy. On any material set-backs, however, considerable buying is expected. Considerable weakness developed in oats, due to the reactions in other grains. Receipts were small, but country offerings were fair and the shipping business did not amount to much. Crop news from the northwest was still bullish, but did not inspire much buying.

Eye advanced and sold off with wheat. No changed noted in general situation, market will probably follow wheat to a great extent. On the set-backs look for good buying.

ASSOCIATED TOOLS GET STUCK; CREW FACE DELAY NOW OF SEVERAL DAYS

(Miller, Court Over Leased Wells)
Calgary, July 18.—The rotary tools to-day were stuck within a couple of feet of the bottom of the Northwest Associated Well, J. H. McLeod, manager of the Imperial, announced to-day.

It may be necessary to unscrew the rods in order to get the tools out, he explained, and this operation often takes four or five days, as when the rods are unscrewed sometimes only one twenty-foot length comes off at a time and sometimes several hundred feet are unscrewed. After the rods have been removed from the drill, it is a matter of fishing it out.

Calgary, July 18.—Northwest Associated under 222 feet in time last night. Total depth of 5,410 feet, but the temporary stop was made before pulling out. There was an increase in gas flow yesterday morning.

Home No. 3 had drilled through the cement and were pulling out tools last night. It will be about a day likely before drilling in time will start. The hole is clean.

Richfield No. 2 was 210 feet in the line with more gas than last week. Last night the crew were delayed briefly for more gas and water line for boilers.

The cellar has been dug and cribbed and derrick will be erected soon for New Hargal Well a few feet east of Home No. 3.

Miller Court directors will meet to-night to consider offers for their property. Watte Valley development is going ahead.

Richfield No. 1 in Turner Valley is 2,800 feet down and making new hole after drilling out casing cement.

"And see her husband walk out of the house the same day?" Nan scoffed. "Don't you see? Mrs. Ward honestly thought that the nurse and Andrew were in love with each other, that no matter if she fired the nurse, Andy would simply wait until his paralyzed old wife kicked the bucket to marry Lois? Imagine how Mrs. Ward felt—old, just as much condemned to invalidism as if she were really paralyzed, because she would be too proud to admit that she'd been shamming; jealous to the point of murdering Lois Downs. She didn't have a lot to live for, did she? Maybe I'll end up by being sorry for the old lady yet!"

"I think I can understand her motive for committing suicide," Morgan said slowly and with such significance that Nan's heart thumped with fear. Then he added, as if obliquely giving her reassurance: "I suppose I questioned your theory because it had always been hard for me to excuse the weakness of suicide—the easiest way out of trouble."

Nan carefully kept her exultation out of her voice. "But there's nothing to show that Mrs. Ward was a nice old woman, and I believe she did commit suicide, with the deliberate intention of making it look as if Lois Downs had murdered her."

"Lois sleeps in the adjoining bedroom, with her door closed. The old lady has never kept her night nurse in the room with her. It's my opinion that Mrs. Ward sneaked a good many chances to walk, but however that may be, her determination lent her energy."

"She gets up about 1 o'clock, looks after Lois has gone to bed and probably to sleep, creeps into the bathroom, opens the medicine cabinet, leaving a nice set of fingerprints, thank heaven! hesitates between bicarbonate of soda and the strychnine which is given her in very small doses as a heart stimulant; decides against herself: "So this is how I resign because I'm in love with a married man. But—he's not really married any more!"

CHAPTER XIX

Late Tuesday afternoon, the first day of court after the two-day adjournment which had been granted to defense counsel for the examination of the body of Mrs. Andrew Ward, for whose murder Lois Downs, her nurse, was being tried. John Curtis Morgan entered his office with a gleam of triumph in his despair-ridden black eyes.

"Well, the defence rests, Nan," the lawyer announced to his secretary. "Want to hear all about it, or have you been reading the extras?"

"Why buy extras when my boss is the manager of the show and can tell me all about it himself?" Nan retorted as he followed him into his private office.

"Brainerd knew he was licked long before adjournment to-day, but he stubbornly refused to admit it," Morgan began eagerly, and the girl, whose big brown eyes searched his beloved face intently, knew that he was grateful for the chance to talk, that he dreaded to be alone. "He tore into our fingerprint expert, savagely open examination, but he couldn't budge Cornwall a hair's breadth. Cornwall made it plain enough for an imbecile to see that the fingerprints found on the bathroom cabinet and on the poison bottles had been made by Mrs. Ward and that at least two of these prints had been superimposed upon prints made by the nurse's fingers, indicating that Mrs. Ward had handled them last."

"Good point," Nan nodded, her face glowing with interest. The man opposite her could not know that she was visualizing that day's dramatic scenes in the courtroom, where again the man she loved had played the hero's role, even though the heart in his breast was heavy with humiliation and despair. A man to be worshipped, fully proud of this man she loved!

"I didn't call Dr. Holtmann until after my fingerprint expert had testified, but I let him hear Cornwall's evidence. Fortunately, the doctor is a brilliant, fair-minded man. When I asked him if it would have been physically possible for Mrs. Ward to walk, he said that it would have been if her desire had been kept enough. Her paralysis was due to a psychosis, or possibly, was shamming, he admitted. Brainerd positively clawed the risk."

"I wish I'd seen him," Nan chuckled. "Did you call Lois Downs's young man, Chester Parks?"

"Yes, Parks testified that he and Lois were engaged to be married, that she had complained to him of Andrew Ward's unwelcome attention. His testimony will go far toward destroying the motive which Brainerd has tried to pin on the girl, especially as Ward himself has admitted that Lois did not return his love."

"Brainerd rested without calling any witnesses in rebuttal, but he'll make a stab at saving his face before the jury tomorrow in his summation. Naturally he'll contend that the old lady's fingerprints in the bathroom don't bear the same relation to the bottles, even if she did toy with poison bottles, but the jury will be glad enough to believe that the unpleasant old lady committed suicide, rather than that a pretty young thing like Lois Downs committed murder. And so—that's that!"

"The moment which Nan had been dreading and pushing away since Friday night had come at last. His only case in the court, court case, was won, or practically so. There was nothing to keep him from sinking into the slough of despond."

The telephone rang with that peculiar long-drawn-out insistence which heralds a long-distance call. "Maybe," Nan thought gloatingly, as she swooped for the instrument before Morgan could reach it, "there's a nice, juicy murder, just dripping with mystery which will keep him so darned busy—" Hello! "Hello! Yes, John Curtis Morgan's office. Oh! Yes, he's right here!"

"She cupped her hand over the receiver and whispered excitedly to Morgan: "It's the governor's secretary. Says the governor wants to talk to you."

"Governor Hogarth?" Morgan was eager again. "About that Brownlee case, I hope. . . . Hello, hello! Morgan speaking. Yes. . . . Oh, hello, Governor! Yes, still trying to keep 'em out of jail. Not so's you'd notice it! But I'd like to flirt with the trout with you this summer, if you can get away. . . . Yes, I suppose so. Presidential year is a God-send to the long-suffering trout, at any rate. . . . Yes, Governor. . . . Of course I'm mighty anxious to see Brownlee get a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. . . . That's mighty decent of you, Ben, but I don't see how I could get away just now. . . ."

Richard Dix Remembers Joy of Being "Mister"

Richard Dix, star of the moving pictures, whose birthday is to-day, has had many wonderful things happen to him in his life, but one of the things that gave him his greatest thrill was his first pair of long trousers. His father bought him the trousers, and when Richard was all dressed up in them, took him driving to another town, which they had not visited for some time, and where the father had many old friends. There Richard was known simply as a little boy. As they entered town, a friend of the father's hailed them. They stopped the horse to speak to him. "This," said Mr. Brimmer (for that was the name with which Richard was born), "is my son Richard."

The man reached out his hand and shook Richard's firmly. "Well, how do you do, Mr. Brimmer?" he said. That was the first time Richard was ever called "Mister," and he was so proud that he remembers it very clearly to-day.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily And Tootie's Teeth

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Tootie was a little rabbit girl who had come to live in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. She was the very newest of the bunny children and when Baby Bunty saw her, lying in a crib in the room of Mrs. Longears, the rabbit mother, Bunty laughed and said:

"Isn't Tootie cute?"

And indeed she was, as cute as a little rabbit as you could find if you rode all day long in an automobile and then went to the moving pictures at night.

One day, soon after Tootie had come to live in the bungalow, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy saw Uncle Wiggily sort of counting his paw nails. Not having fingers, as you have, the rabbit gentleman had to count on his paws. There was a queer look on his face.

"What's the matter?" squeaked Nurse Jane.

"I was just trying to find out what number Tootie is," said Mr. Longears. "Number!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "She hasn't any number. You seem to think she is an automobile-number, indeed."

"What's the matter?" squeaked Nurse Jane.

"Oh, I didn't mean that way," said Uncle Wiggily. "I know I used to have forty seven little bunny boys and girls. Then Orphan Baby Bunty came to live with us, and she made forty twelve. And then along came Jingle and Jangle and Buster and Custer and some more so I counted up to forty sixteen. And now with Tootie—"

"Well, she must be forty seventeen," said Nurse Jane with a laugh.

"I guess so," agreed Uncle Wiggily and then he hopped in the room to look at Tootie. This was a little while after Tootie had come to the hollow stump bungalow.

"Look at Tootie! What is she doing?" suddenly Mr. Longears asked his wife. He pointed to the new rabbit child who was chewing on the hard end of her rattle box.

"Oh, she just cutting her teeth," said Mrs. Longears. "All rabbit children have to bite on something hard when their teeth begin to come. Biting helps to push the teeth up where they belong so they can chew their food."

"Well, I hope Tootie doesn't bite me," chuckled Uncle Wiggily.

"It will be some time before she can bite a banana," spoke Mrs. Longears, and then she gently had to push Tootie back on the pillow of her crib for the little rabbit child was reaching over as if trying to bite the edge of the bureau.

As the days went on, Tootie's teeth grew faster and faster in her mouth and the more they grew the more she wanted to bite on hard things to help the teeth come through the gums. Once Uncle Wiggily came in the room to see his bunny girl, and he had with him his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch, under his paw.

He leaned over Tootie to kiss her good-by before going adventuring and bless my gas stove! Tootie bit the rheumatism crutch! But it was only in fun to help her teeth come through.

Well, after a while Tootie grew big enough so Uncle Wiggily could wheel her out in the carriage. By this time Tootie had two teeth in her upper

This should be a lucky day for most activities on the planet Earth, according to astrology, which finds that a strong benefic aspect dominates.

It is a favorable way under which to travel and sea voyages should be especially beneficial to the health.

Hospitals and sanitariums now come under a rule making for enlargement of their scope, generous endowments and access of scientific efficiency.

Again the seers predict for the remainder of the summer and the early autumn much illness.

Changeable weather and unreasonable temperatures will induce throat troubles of many sorts, it is foretold.

This should be an auspicious planetary government for whatever requires foresight, intuition and wise judgment.

New discoveries of oil are prognosticated and profits are indicated for holders of petroleum.

Conditions to-day are most favorable for metaphysical studies and tend toward discoveries in the realm of the occult.

Increase of interest in astrology, spiritism and other fields of intellectual exploration will mark the close of the year, astrologers prophesy.

Water as an aid in preserving and improving healthy physical conditions will be recognized as never before, even in periods where spas were at the height of popularity. It is foretold.

Foreign relations are subject to a first-rate aspect at this time when American diplomacy is to gain praise.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year that brings much happiness and real success.

Children born on this day probably will have keen, resourceful minds. The subjects of this sign often reach high paces through their inequality and originality.

Samuel Colt, inventor, was born on this day, 1814. Others who have claimed it as a birthdate include Roger A. Pryor, American lawyer, 1828; Benjamin F. Taylor, author, 1819; Juliette Bonheur, like her famous sister an animal painter, 1830.

Jaw and two in the lower. And more were coming and she kept on biting everything she could get hold of, such as the end of her rattle box, the edge of her crib and her mother's pocketbook, which Mrs. Longears sometimes left in the carriage.

One day Uncle Wiggily had wheeled Tootie out to the woods. Putting the carriage in the shade, Uncle Wiggily sat down on a stump and, before he knew it, he began to go to sleep.

Tootie, as usual, was looking for hard things to bite.

All of a sudden along came the Skillery Scallery Alligator, who, seeing Uncle Wiggily asleep, stole up to the old rabbit gentleman, intending to carry him off to his den. The 'Gator did not bother with Tootie as she was too little. But as the 'Gator leaned over to catch sleeping Uncle Wiggily in his paws, the hard end of the long tail of the Alligator came near Tootie's carriage.

As quick as a wink Tootie saw something hard to bite on to help her teeth come through so she bit on the 'Gator's tailtip. Ha! Ha!

U.S. WARSHIPS RUSH TO RESCUE

Take Passengers Off Beached Liner in China Waters in Heavy Seas

Shanghai, July 18.—Warships of the United States Asiatic fleet, in a thrilling dash yesterday from summer headquarters at Tsingtao and rescued forty-two passengers from the North German Lloyd steamship Doerflinger, which late Tuesday night ran on the rocks at Chialentao, forty miles from Tsingtao, during heavy weather, high seas, fog and rain.

The German vessel crashed on the rocks at Chialentao Island, where she is held fast by the bow, with her first, second and third decks flooded. Salvage tugs are rushing from Shanghai.

Rescue of passengers was greatly hampered by heavy seas. United States destroyers fought a twelve-hour battle to transfer the passengers from the crippled ship.

Government House Party To See Regatta

His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, Miss Mackenzie and a party from Government House will be present at the annual club regatta of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at Cadboro Bay on Saturday afternoon, Major W. Rowson, secretary, announced this morning. His Honor, who is an honorary member of the Yacht Club, has always shown a keen interest in the affairs of the local club, and is frequently seen around the moorings at Cadboro Bay.

The programme will commence at 3 o'clock with an event for racing dinghies. Following this, fifteen minutes later, will be a race for the star boats and five minutes later the sailing cruisers will leave their moorings for a race around the bay. At 4:30 o'clock there will be a race for motor-boats of all types.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, July 18.—Representatives of tow boat and yacht owners of this vicinity yesterday sent letters to thirteen organizations asking each to name four men to serve on a committee of fifty-two which will conduct a campaign against the present valuation system applied to vessels and to obtain data for presentation at the next session of the Legislature.

The action was taken against the system of levying taxes against vessels of various types and rigs with repeal of the statute which places the craft under personal property classification. California and Oregon, Washington's competing states in shipping, levy no personal tax on vessels, in order to foster the industry, it was pointed out.

Palatial New Vessel For Local Yacht Club

Eighty-foot Cruiser Deerleap, Owned by A. W. McLimont of Metchosin, Among Finest in Northwest; Recently Returned From Trip to Prince Rupert and Is Now in Seattle.

One of the most beautiful yachts in the northwest is now among the vessels belonging to members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. She is the Deerleap, owned by A. W. McLimont of Metchosin and built at the Hoffer-Beeching shipyards at Vancouver from designs prepared for Mr. McLimont. Since being turned over to the owner several weeks ago the Deerleap has made a trip to Prince Rupert and is now in Seattle.

The palatial new boat measures eighty feet over all, with a seventeen-foot beam, and a nine-foot molded depth. She is equipped with two 17-horsepower reduction-gear model HD Hall-Scott gasoline engines, which drive her at a maximum speed of twelve knots.

C. B. Warren, in The Pacific Motor Boat, says of the new Deerleap: "For a boat of her size she has a remarkably comfortable accommodation layout—the observation saloon, dining saloon and galley being on deck abaft the pilot house, while the staterooms for the owner's party are in the after part of the boat down below, being entered by a companion leading from the observation saloon. The engine room is amidships, while the boiler room for the steam-heating system, and crew's quarters are forward."

The saloon and staterooms are handsomely furnished, the observation room in the after part of the deck house being finished in teak and furnished with upholstered settees and chairs, while an open-air fireplace makes it a very cheerful place on a cool evening. Built-in bookcases and buffets, rugs on the floor and handsome hangings certainly make it a cozy spot, the room being exceptionally well lighted by large windows and has both wall and ceiling electric light fixtures in pleasing designs as well. The dining room is also large and airy with a finish similar to the observation saloon, and has many built-in conveniences besides a regular dining-room suite.

The owner's suite consists of a double-berth stateroom taking in the full breadth of the boat abaft the engine room, with another single-berth cabin and a bathroom finished in mahogany and marble adjoining. A hallway leads to another double stateroom right aft, while on the port side of this hall is a single-berth stateroom and on the starboard side opposite, a single-berth stateroom and a bathroom finished in green tile.

The Deerleap has exceptionally heavy timbering for a pleasure craft of this size, the frames being sawed cypress, while the planking is two and one-quarter and two and one-half inch teak and the decks and deckhouses are teak finished.

The engines are fitted with three-to-one reduction gears, giving a very efficient propeller speed of one-third the engine revolutions, with thirty-six inch propellers. In addition to a 1,500 watt generator, which operates off one of the main engines, there is an independent 2,000 watt electric generating set to take care of general lighting, electric anchor windlass, the refrigeration unit, automatic bilge pumps and Fairbanks-Morse electric automatic starting system.

The galley range is operated on rock gas, four storage cylinders of which are carried in the hold under the after motor. The cabin floors are finished in teak, while the 1,500-gallon gasoline tanks and 1,500 gallons of fresh water are carried in the bottom of the boat under the cabin floors. There is a small gasoline service tank in the engine room.

In addition to ordinary precautions taken in the construction of the boat to insure safety, the Deerleap has an automatic fire extinguisher system. The Deerleap carries a lifeboat and a dinghy which hoist on davits with hand-winch. Outboard motors are used in these boats when required.

She is well adapted for British Columbia coast cruising and her seaworthiness was given a good test on a trial trip across the Gulf of Georgia, when she ran into a thirty mile southeast breeze.

This is the second boat of the same name that Mr. McLimont has used for cruising on this coast, both of them having been built by Hoffer-Beeching shipyards from designs by Henry Hoffer, while the repeat order for Hall-Scott reduced gear engines also speaks well for a satisfactory operation of the engines in the first boat.

Sunday to see that the repairs carried out on the ship's engines have been completed satisfactorily. The Charlotte was floated into the Government drydock this morning for cleaning and painting.

Capt. George Le Marquand, manager of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation of Victoria left yesterday afternoon for Seattle on a short business trip. He will return to-morrow.

The pleasure boats Malolo, East Lynn and Margaret, flying the pennant of the Seattle Yacht Club, were visitors at the Cadboro Bay moorings of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club yesterday. The East Lynn and the Margaret left on their return last night, the Malolo remaining for a longer visit.

Engineers from Yarrow's Limited and from the C.P.R. machine shops will make a cruise aboard the steamer Princess Charlotte to Vancouver on

WHALING TENDER STRIKES LOG AND LOSES PROPELLER

Striking a submerged log in Johnstone Strait when on her return to her base at Naden Harbor in the Queen Charlotte Islands, the whaling tender Grey lost her propeller yesterday afternoon and was later towed to Alert Bay by the Alaska liner Northwestern.

The Island Tug and Barge Company's powerful tug Burrard Chief has left Victoria for Alert Bay to tow the Grey in tow for Victoria, where she will be repaired at the Yarrow's plant. The Yarrow's Limited. She is expected some time to-morrow.

The Grey left Victoria Tuesday evening on her return to the Queen Charlotte Islands, and was en route to Naden Harbor when she struck a submerged log and lost her propeller.

She is owned and operated by the Consolidated Whaling Corporation of Victoria.

Tribes in Colonies To Aid New Works Of Construction

London, July 18 (Canadian Press Cable).—Moving second reading of the Colonial Development Bill in the Commons yesterday, Hon. W. Lunn, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, said the Government did not think any degree of compulsion should be used to make native populations furnish labor necessary to carry out any scheme of development.

The bill is designed to assist directly in relieving unemployment in Britain by providing outlets for some British labor through creating demand for materials of British manufacture for use in construction work. It provides for financial aid to colonial governments and private concerns for development work in the colonies.

U.S. World Course Topic of Debate

London, July 18.—J. C. Marsh Washington, D.C., managing director of the Farmers' National Council, asserted at a conference here that the United States had definitely embarked on a policy of world financial and economic domination.

"We outpoint England and Germany and every other nation in productive efficiency," he said. "We own about two-thirds of the world's wealth. When the rest of the world was fighting, the United States ruling classes were figuring on which horse to put her money on. She picked the right horse after it was a sure winner and then continued to ride the winner and loser."

San Francisco, July 18.—One of the two concrete ships built during the World War by the Government, the Perito, came into port yesterday in tow of a tug from Port Armstrong.

The vessel and her sister ship, the Palo Alto, both of 7,500 tons, were expected to revolutionize shipbuilding, but they proved to be failures. The Perito is to be used in the sardine industry at Monterey. The Palo Alto is laid up in Oakland Creek.
